Online courses can be taught as either asynchronous or synchronous.

Synchronous means that the course takes place online (usually through Zoom) during specific days and times of the week. In this case, you will see specific days and times listed in the “Days & Times” column of the class search.

Asynchronous means that the course does not meet live and the student is responsible for covering the material on their own by a certain date. The asynchronous material is usually made available through Carmen via recorded lectures or presentations. Asynchronous courses as listed as “TBA” in the “Days & Times” column on the class search.
